

Friends of St Peter's Church Elford

Have you ever considered becoming a Friend of St Peter's Church Elford?

For as little as £10 per year you could join the Friends of St Peter's Church and help us to care for the preservation of this beautiful church which is a focus and an asset in our midst.

The Friends is a secular organisation and open to anyone who is interested in this fine historic building. Elford Church is one of the oldest structures in the village and its foundations are most probably Norman. It has been much loved over the centuries and is sited in a beautiful setting near the River Tame, not far from what was once a ford crossing from Roman times. The church is regularly used for services, weddings, baptisms, funerals and social events; it is visited by people from all over the world who have an interest in the church and its historic Mediaeval alabaster tombs in the Stanley Chapel.

Our purpose as Friends is to make sure that Elford Church remains in the forefront of people's minds and to help make certain that it does not fall into disrepair. As well as advertising events at St Peter's Church and inviting people to attend without obligation, we also keep our Friends up to date with what is going on in the village generally. Clearly we have close links with the church organisers, but there is no need to be a churchgoer, or indeed to be a Christian, to become a Friend. Everyone is welcome.
